Welcome

Welcome to the Public Dental Surgeons' Seminar 2014.

This year we venture to the beautiful setting of Mount Wolseley Hotel, Tullow, Co. Carlow on Thursday and Friday, October 16 and 17.

Our format changes this year with the programme covering two full days of presentations rather than three. We hope this change will enable more delegates to attend the entire event.

We are delighted to welcome so many distinguished national and international speakers to this year's event. I am particularly pleased to welcome President of the Dental Council, Dr Eamon Croke, to officially open the seminar as well as delivering a presentation on the forthcoming Dentist Act.

This year's programme has been designed to meet the specific needs of dentists within the Public Dental Service but should also be of interest to dental nurses, hygienists and our colleagues in general practice. The core CPD areas are covered as well as new advances in posterior composites, trauma, oral healthcare of patients with dementia, orthodontics, primary care management of cleft palate patients and paediatric dentistry. The speakers bring enthusiasm and expertise in equal measure and it promises to be informative and entertaining two days.

Thank you to our trade sponsors for their support, which enables us to hold this conference. I encourage all delegates to visit the trade show on Friday.

Finally, with the success of the informal social event last year, this format will continue in 2014, with a buffet meal and musical entertainment planned for Thursday evening.

I look forward to meeting you all in Carlow!
